SMITH NOW IN PENITENTIARY

Charleroi Man Will Have to Serve
Time For Present and Past Offenses—California Steward Must Spend Three Months in Jail

The Monongahela valley figured extensively in criminal court on Monday. Kent Smith, of Charleroi, was sent back to Western penitentiary and L. D. Cornell of California, was given a sentence for violation of parole. The case of James Shields and Kenneth Matson for highway robbery was practically finished.

Kent Smith, convicted the past week for embezzlement may have to remain eight years at Western penitentiary. He had also entered a plea of guilty to carrying concealed weapons. On this charge he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $1 and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for 60 days. On the embezzlement charge he was sentenced to pay the costs, a fine of $1, and to undergo imprisonment in the county jail for ten days.

It appearing to the court that Smith was a parole prisoner from the penitentiary and that a warrant was out for his arrest, the court made an order directing that Smith be turned over to the penitentiary authorities. An officer from the institution came for him and Smith was again lodged within the familiar precincts of Riverside. Smith was sentenced to the penitentiary in May, 1910, for an indeterminate term of from two and one-half years to ten years. He had been convicted in this court for a felonious assault upon Mr. and Mrs. William Noble at Centerville on the night of February 26, 1910.

L. D. Cornell, steward of the Fraternal Order of Eagles of California, entered a plea of guilty Monday to violating the conditions of the parole imposed on him about a year ago. He was given the usual sentence for liquor law violation, a fine of $500 and costs and three months in jail. Cornell was arrested on Monday February 8, upon a bench warrant which was issued upon complaint of Constable H. B. Lake of California that Cornell, as steward of the Eagles was violating his parole in the manner in which he was dispensing drinks at the Eagles' club. He gave bail for a hearing.

Between 30 and 40 witnesses had been subpoenaed and they were all on hand Monday morning. The number included three women. Cornell admitted he had violated his parole and no witnesses were called. About $150 was paid out in costs to the witnesses required to be present.

It was set forth in Officer Lake's petition that Cornell had sold to W. A. Roberts, a man of known intemperate habits, after being notified not to do so; that he furnished liquor to others than members of the California lodge of Eagles; that he sold whiskey and beer at a profit and that he sold to members of the lodge when they were in an intoxicated condition and that he sold to members whose families were in needy circumstances.

An additional boom was given at Brownsville when the Lilley Coal and Coke company began work on 40 dwelling houses. While not of an elaborate design all the houses will be substantial dwellings which will be used by the miners employed at the Lilley mine.

Rents have taken a jump as the result of the demand for living quarters and many miners were about to leave for other parts when the Lilley Coal and Coke company decided to erect houses for their employees.

LOOK FOR NEW TROLLEY LINE

Brownsville is now on the eve of what the people there consider a great boom. Many of the coke works of that region, as well as the Brownsville Window Glass company's plant and other plants, have recently begun operations, and many new buildings are going up. The recent fire at West Brownsville was the means of removing many old buildings, and new structures are taking their place and making West Brownsville a more important center.

One of the new buildings built during the last year is that of the Brownsville General hospital. It will be equipped soon. Brownsville is becoming too a coking center.

It is believed by Brownsville people that the line of the Pittsburgh-Charleroi Railways company will be extended to California and then to West Brownsville within the near future.

went on a rampage in court room No. 1, during grand jury week, and who was overpowered at Washington by Policeman Gus Brickner, of Charleroi was sentenced to three months in the workhouse. Williams had come to Washington from West Virginia and was doped upon cocaine. He did not know from whom he secured the drug. It took two or three men to handle him on the day he was arrested. A black jack used over his head rather freely did not seem to have any effect.

Monday after sentence was passed he began again to show an ugly disposition. Two deputy sheriffs kept him under surveillance. When he began to show signs of starting trouble he was hustled out of the court room and locked up. Judge Irwin remarked that if the defendant kept up his annoyance the sentence would be made six months.

MILLINER ACCUSED IN DAMAGE SUIT BY WIFE

Sensational Charges Made at Uniontown by Mrs.
Newcomer Against Woman Now Said to be Living in Charleroi

Suit for $10,000 for alienation of her husband's affections was filed at Uniontown Monday by Mrs. Blanche E. Newcomer, wife of F. C. Newcomer a prominent attorney, against Miss Harriet Hough, a former milliner of Uniontown, who is now said to be living in Charleroi. Papers in the suit were served on Miss Hough in the office of Attorney Newcomer. Suit for divorce was filed by Mrs. Newcomer on January 7.

No statement was filed in the case and the attorneys declined to make a statement. When the divorce case was filed the name of the milliner was given as co-respondent in the case.

Since the divorce case was filed Mr. Newcomer according to the story from Uniontown has supplied many thrills and this last one is said to be tame to a few that have come to the police department.

Harriet Hough, until a few days ago, conducted a millinery store on North Gallatin avenue, Uniontown, near the B. & O. depot. It was reported a few days ago that she had disposed of her store and intended to go to Charleroi.

Mrs. Newcomer, whose maiden name was Eastburn, instituted her divorce suit after there had been considerable friction between her and her husband.

WASHINGTON'S DAY IS OBSERVED IN CHARLEROI

And Addresses Are Made by Rev. W. G. Mead and Rev. John
R. Burson—Bankers Have Holiday

Washington's Birthday was observed in Charleroi Monday principally by exercises in the school. By the banks and the postoffice it was regarded as a holiday, but these were about the only businesses that were closed.

At the high school auditorium programs were given both in the morning and afternoon. In the morning the high school gave a program and Rev. W. G. Mead, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church made an address.

In the afternoon the Junior high school held exercises at the high school auditorium. By this time Rev. John R. Burson, pastor of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church spoke. The program consisted of exercises and drills. Prof. I. T. Daniel had charge of the music and the high school orchestra played.

LOCAL CASE IS NOT FINISHED ON MONDAY

Highway Robbery Charge Against
Two Probed While Two Others
Await Sentence—Last Case Reaches the Jury Today.

Contrary to expectations the case of the commonwealth against James Matson and Kenneth Matson, charged with highway robbery was not entirely finished Monday, and the case did not reach the jury until today.

The case was closed on the testimony last evening and the argument for the defendants has been made. The two young men with two others, William Silence and Frank Rafferty were indicted for highway robbery. The latter two were convicted last week, but have not yet been sentenced. The four are alleged to have lured Alver Sarafin to an alley back of the Monier hotel, Charleroi, there to have assaulted him and robbed him of a sum of money.

There are now 67 bird reserves in the United States where wild fowl may live unmolested.

That H. W. Temple is the popular choice among Republican members of the house for congressman from the twenty-fourth district to succeed the late W. M. "I have taken the time to discuss this question with many of the present Republican members of the house," says Mr. Woods, "and without exception they all agree that in their opinion it would be very beneficial to the Republican party throughout the country if the Republicans of the twenty-fourth district would nominate Mr. Temple. EVANGELISTS KEPT ON JUMP

Minges Company Visits at Belle Vernon Monday—
Holding Meetings Today

SERMON TOPIC IS ANNOUNCED

Evangelist William J. Minges and his company took a part of Monday off from their strenuous labors in connection with the religious campaign beginning in Charleroi, but on Monday evening they went to Belle Vernon, where a service was held at the First Christian church. The evangelist preached on "Clear Heavenly Guidance." This morning several prayer meetings were held at different points in town, following a meeting at the high school, when Evangelist Minges spoke.

The regular services at the tabernacle will be conducted this evening, with Evangelist Minges speaking on the subject, "Who Was Christ." A chorus choir will be conducted as usual by G. P. Rockwell.

This afternoon at 12:30 a shop meeting was conducted at the Imperial Bottle factory and Evangelist Minges spoke briefly to the employees there. This was the second shop meeting so far the first having been held last Saturday afternoon at the plant of the Macbeth-Evans Glass company. This is one of the busiest days for the evangelists.

Tax Collecting at Uniontown Not a Thing Greatly to be Admired

CRAMER OUSTED BY COURT

Man Who Thought He Was Honest-
To-Goodness Office Holder Finds Himself on Outside Looking in—Outsider Inside Looking Out

Although Charles T. Cramer has been serving as tax collector for Uniontown since April 1, 1914, the supreme court of Pennsylvania, reversing the decision of Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen of the Fayette county bench, has just decided that the independent Democratic candidate, J. Searight Marshall, defeated Cramer at the polls and he is the real tax collector. The law of the commonwealth provides that Cramer must pay to Marshall all emoluments received during the term and make an accounting of all funds.

This decision ends the long-contested Cramer-Marshall case, which was begun December, 1913, when 31 leading citizens of the town presented a petition contesting Cramer's election and declaring it had been irregular and illegal. After various delays the case was called for trial last April and gross irregularities were alleged, J. J. Smith, county detective, petitioning the court for permission to refrain from answering when questioned whether or not he bribed voters, stating that by answering he would incriminate himself. Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen decided there was nothing to prevent Cramer's becoming tax collector, declaring he had received the greatest number of votes and was entitled to the office.

Immediately H. S. Dumbauld, attorney for the petitioners, appealed to the Supreme Court, which struck out the contested precinct and gave Marshall the election by 21 votes. The original vote was 1,110 for Cramer, Republican; 1,069 for Marshall, Democrat. Of these 157 and 95, respectively, were cast in the Fourth Ward, Uniontown, where the greatest irregularity was alleged.

APPROPRIATION OF $75,000 TO BE ASKED AT BROWNSVILLE

Representative Duncan Sinclair of Fayette county is now preparing a bill to be introduced in the house when the legislature reconvenes on March 1, making an appropriation to the Brownsville General Hospital. While Representative Sinclair does not have the bill completed it is probable that an appropriation of $75,000 will be asked for the two years.

WORRY.
Worry—to choke or strangle says
the dictionary. It is not necessary to seek for the further definition for that is truly the physical manifestation of mental torment, says the state health commissioner.
Worry strangles our mental powers and chokes the bodily functions.
There are innumerable instances in which physical decline and death are directly traceable to worry.
It is true that in everyone's life,
force of circumstance, bitter experiences and trying problems must be met, considered and conquered. No matter how vital these may be or how much real thought is required
in their solution, worry will never aid
and it inevitably handicaps all effort to obtain a clear point of view and the establishment of a true perspective toward life's happenings.
The ancient philosophers deemed worry unworthy of men of true mental attainment. Our physical makeup is so finely adjusted that any disturbance of mind reacts upon the bodily functions. Excessive anger is often followed by illness and worry with its accompanying morbid thoughts
has a like influence.
There is a close relation between our physical and mental selves and a sound body is a reserve force behind the mind. When you are tempted to worry bestir yourself physically. Exercise in the open air, a long stroll or some similar diversion will sometimes prove a sufficient stimulant to aid materially any mental effort you may make to cast off the burden.
Another and even more effective measure is to keep busy at one's daily tasks. Occupation, if it be of a nature to require close application, is one of the most effective cures for
worry.

AFTER THE FOOTPADS
Unless the manufacturers of firearms exert sufficient personal interest to prevent it, the present state legislature may pass a law that will greatly restrict the sale and use of firearms and kindred weapons such as blackjacks, dirks, stilettos, etc.
Such a bill has already been introduced in the senate. It is so drawn as to constitute a very emphatic protest against the indiscriminate sale
and use of these weapons, says an exchange.
The question has been raised in the minds of some—how the carrying of these weapons can be sufficiently restricted to bring about a greater degree of public safety, and at the same time not interfere with the legiti-mate use of such weapons for protection.
In New York state there is a law
that provides a penitentiary sentence for carrying deadly weapons. The punishment being almost as severe as though the owner actually used the gun with murderous intent. This law has undoubtedly resulted in greatly reducing the "gun toting" menace among what is known as the tough element of the metropolis.
If the punishment is made severe enough, a restrictive measure will undoubtedly have a wholesome effect upon society in many sections of the state, this county included.

PICKED UP IN PASSING
Goodloe H. Thomas, of the Friday Evening Call, at Moressen writes of "Mumps" in a recent issue and discusses that "swell" subject as follows:
Just to get a lap or two ahead of the esteemed Doctor Dixon and his Bureau of Diseases and How to Reach Them with a Pruning Knife, we desire to offer a few remarks on the disease called mumps, which is, or are as the case may be, growing in popularity.
This swell malady now making the rounds and being watched and placarded by the Board of Health
comes with damp weather, apparently oozes in from the moist earth,
takes a look around through the system and finally settles in the attic,
just in front of the pearl-like ear of the victim. Here it attacks the parotid gland, which seems to have been put there for the purpose of being attacked.
Mumps is—no, are!—respector of persons. It lends itself to the exaggeration of the rounded cheek, of youth or to the pumping of rotundity
into the scrawny jawbone of a mother-in-law. The mumps will do for a man what nature in other guise, or good feeding, will fail to do: it will fatten him up, perhaps only on one side, so that he has to part his hair to the extreme other side to keep from overbalancing. That is if the mumps have attacked only one jaw.
When it effects both sides, the victim is perfectly well balanced, except when he tries to eat, and then his howls cause the neighbors to whisper about that its perfectly dreadful the way Miss Smith beats her husband.
The mumps are not conducive to physical beauty. The young woman who desires to hold her popularity should not entertain a great deal while afflicted with the disease and her presence at a taffy-pulling would be out of taste to say the least.
No more painful combination could hardly be conceived than a fair maiden, stricken with the mumps, endeavoring to masticate a large hunk of taffy and at the same time maintain her sangfroid.
In explanation it should be stated that the French term, sangfroid, is similar to the American "don't give-a-damn," and is an expression used in the very best circles.
The trouble is that mumps attracts no sympathy. We might sorrow over a friend having a stonebruise, a gumball or a split lip, but the mumps creates no emotion except laughter. Let this not be so.
Mumps are painful, inconvenient and detestable. Go not where the sign warns that mumps are prevalent.
Send a few flowers, but stay away
yourself for the mumped is moody, disconsolate and savage—even to the point of chastising a friend who comes to offer his grinning condolences.
Horace sat and gnawed his pen,
says an exchange, concentrating
a look of hatred on the blank sheet of paper before him. From his seat
he could see others dashing off fluent essays on Henry VIII. "Two minutes more!" came from the teacher.
Then Horace, in desperation, seized
his pen and made a bid for fame.
"Henry VIII was a king of England.
He was born at Anno Domino, and he had sixty wives. The first he ordered to be executed, but she was beheaded. He revoked the second and the third died; and then he married Annie Bowling the daughter of Tom Bowling. When he died he was succeeded on the throne by his Aunt Mary. Her full name was Mary Queen of Scots, or the Lay of the Last Minstrel."

CONSCRIPT ARMIES.

Military Rules in Force in the Various States of Europe.
Napoleon in 1795 first brought conscription into force, then it was adopted by Prussia after her defeat by the French at Jena in 1806. In most countries where conscription is in vogue every man on reaching a certain age—from nineteen to twenty-one—has to undergo a period of military training. This prevails in France and Germany, but in Russia a certain number of men is required only, and if this is exceeded the authorities decide from whom full service shall be exacted. Of course certain men are excused, such as the only sons or eldest sons of clergymen, etc.
In Spain and Portugal every man is not directly called upon, but each locality is obliged to furnish a certain number, the men being chosen by lot.
There is no standing army in Switzerland, but all able-bodied citizens serve in the militia, which is called upon to train a few weeks every year.
Although compulsory service is the law of the land, the army in the Neu-erland is mainly composed of volunteers.
It is considered by some people that conscription is unpopular, but in the rural districts of the countries where conscription is in force the inhabitants look forward to the time when they will be called upon as the only exciting change in their lives.
The best conscriptive countries have so legislated that when the conscript
leaves the army suitable employment is found for him, also, another point in his favor, his period of service is not so long as that of the volunteer.—London Chronicle.

A BOTANICAL PARADISE.

Juan Fernandez Islands Have More Than One Claim to Fame.
In the Juan Fernandez group of islands, 360 miles from Valparaiso the Chilean government has a wireless station. Three islands comprise the group, but the name is usually applied to the largest, Mas a Tierra, closest to the mainland. Here it was that Defoe pictured Alexander Selkirk (Robinson Crusoe) in exile.
Mas a Tierra is of irregular form,
about twelve miles in length, but hardly four miles across in its widest part.
When seen from a distance the peak of El Yumbie—the great—appears very prominently in a range of precipitous mountains and attaining a height of 3,000 feet. From the summit to the base the mountain is wooded, with a wonderfully fertile valley at the foot.
Dr. Carl Skottsberg of the Swedish Macellane expedition landed on the island in 1903, and the eminent geographer wrote subsequently that "from a botanical point of view Juan Fernandez is one of the world's most famous places. So many wonderful plants are brought together here on a small area
that one must touch them to realize that one does not dream." Colonization of Juan Fernandez began some years ago, and a considerable fishing settlement is now in evidence.
In the near restaurants of Valparaiso and Santiago the lobsters of Juan Fernandez are considered delicacies for which fancy prices are paid.—Argo-

What Could Be Done with the $2,000,000 Which the Full Crew Laws Arbitrarily Take From the Railroads

Increased Railroad facilities, better service, greater safety and convenience, business expansion and the employment of a great number of men now idle would follow the repeal of the wasteful Pennsylvania and New Jersey Full Crew Laws.

Facts—Not Theories

$2,000,000 would buy 2000 steel coaches.
It would pay for 80 locomotives.
It would purchase 67,000 tons of rails.
It would return 5 per cent. on $40,000,000.
It would block-signal 1000 miles of track.
It would eliminate 65 grade crossings.
It would pay for 2000 freight cars.
It would build 200 new stations at $10,000.
It would provide additional freight terminal facilities.
It would buy 2,500,000 railroad ties.
It would pay for 2,000,000 tons of coal.
The iron and steel industry would be stimulated, furnishing steel for new cars, rails, bridges, buildings, etc.
Miners and coke oven operatives would get increased work as industry expanded.
New construction would mean busy times for the Lehigh region cement plants and their workmen.
Thousands of architects, contractors, building trades workers, electrical concerns and electricians, skilled mechanics, carpenters, miners, and day laborers would so get work.

With these incontestable facts thus clearly set forth, the twenty-one railroads of Pennsylvania and New Jersey feel it their duty to place the fate of the Full Crew Laws in the hands of the people. They are convinced the people prefer that employment be given to thousands for whom there actually is work to knowing that $2,000,000 a year is being paid in mandatory wages for extra men for whom there exists no essential service to perform and whose presence, it has been conclusively shown, increases—rather than decreases—the hazards of railroad operation.

Line Treatment in Tuberculosis

In the May 27, 1912, issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association appeared this statement concerning calcium (line) medication in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption): "Under the systematic continued and persistent regime of calcium assimilation, Van Gieson has seen a number of his patients improve, undergo an exudation or partial consolidation in the lungs, which then resolving would appear to contribute to the walling off and closing of the lesions. Hand in hand with this course of events, the sputum clears up, of tubercle bacilli, which finally disappear; and the patients are discharged with healed pulmonary tuberculosis."

SOME DON'TS For Stomach and Liver Sufferers

Don't take medicine for your Stomach ailments morning, noon and night, as usually such medicines only give temporary relief and simply digest the food that happens to be in the Stomach.

NON-PARTISAN ACT A FAILURE

Movement on to Repeal Law Passed in 1913

ELECTION CHANGES PROPOSED

Among Other Things Contemplated Is the Prevention of Fusion—Primary Day May Be Moved Nearer—No Hurry About Local Option—Pension Bill For Teachers.

Harrisburg, Feb. 23. — When the legislature reconvenes next week, following a ten days' recess, bills affecting the election machinery of Pennsylvania will be introduced and pushed through the two branches of the assembly. These measures deal with many provisions of the existing laws and an effort will be made to give the voter a less cumbersome ballot and to simplify elections in other respects. There is pronounced opposition all over Pennsylvania against the non-partisan judge act put through the legislature two years ago. This is especially true as regards the nomination of judges for the supreme and superior courts. Nearly all the leaders of the two political parties have reached the conclusion that the latest scheme of electing men to these high offices is not meeting with the approval of the people. The desire for the change appears to be so widespread that if a bill to restore the old order of things is presented it will likely pass without much difficulty.

Want Act Repealed.

As for the choosing of common pleas judges, it is only fair to say that the non-partisan plan has worked out somewhat better than in the case of supreme and superior judges. Still, there is considerable agitation to repeal the entire act of two years ago, and if this is done all judges in the state will be nominated and elected through party nominations.

Instead of taking judges out of politics the present law, apparently, puts them into it deeper than ever. Not having any party to stand for them and dignify their candidacy, aspirants for the judiciary must do personal buttonholing of voters and almost pull doorbells in an effort to gain support. This tends to lessen respect for the courts, say numerous lawyers and others who are anxious to have the law changed.

Failure in Third Class Cities.

As a matter of fact, the non-partisan system has failed to give satisfaction even in third class cities, where councilmen are now chosen under the Clark commission government bill. With a few exceptions the twenty-five third class cities of Pennsylvania would much prefer electing councilmen by parties, for the reason that when a party places a man in a municipal office he gives the public better service than if he is chosen in a free-for-all race.

In addition to this, it is felt that a Republican legislature owes it to the Republicans of third class cities to assist in sustaining the organizations in those places, and from a party standpoint the election of councilmen by parties is essential. It would not be surprising if bills are proposed to wipe out the word "non-partisan" in the election laws of Pennsylvania. The leaders of the two branches feel that it has been given a fair trial, and inasmuch as it has proven a pronounced failure there is no sense in keeping it longer.

Fusion Not Popular.

Another bill to be offered has to do with candidates getting on more than one ticket after the primaries. As is well known, the Democrats, Progressives and other minority parties never have any hopes of winning without combining after the people make nominations. To prevent this fraud upon the voters, a bill will go in to make the withdrawal of a candidate impossible. A substitution can only be made in the event of the death of a nominee.

There is also a strong movement on to prohibit a man registering for more than one nomination. Though a law of this character would meet with the approval of the vast majority of people, its enactment is doubtful, as the constitution allows a party to nominate any person for office, and the fact that the same person aspires for the favor of more than one office makes no difference.

Much interest is being shown regarding the date of the primaries this year. The feeling prevails in certain parts of the state that the day now fixed by law, the third Tuesday of September, allows too short a period for the election campaign. This is especially true in counties that have large tickets to elect.

Date of Primaries.

A bill to hold the primaries about two weeks earlier in September is under contemplation, though no definite conclusions have been arrived at as to whether or not such a change should be made. Some of the leading Republicans are of the opinion that a short campaign is to be preferred, and if this belief continues to obtain September 21 will stand.

In the legislature there are bills to repeal the personal registration act in third class cities, also the enrollment act in boroughs and townships. None of these efforts will materialize. The people are pleased with the law as it stands at present on the subjects named, and as the men interested in politics are aware of this favorable impression the chances have been made no attempt will be made to repeal them.

Not Hurrying Local Option.

It is now asserted that the local option bill will not be considered by either branch of the legislature till the middle of March. It was thought that Chairman Williams, of the law and order committee, would take some action on the option bill before the ten days' recess, but he announced that he is in no hurry to call together the members of the committee.

Representative Williams said recently that there is no doubt that the bill will be reported out, because a majority of the members are in favor of it. At the same time he can see no great benefit in rushing matters, in fact it would seem from the attitude of the leading local optionists in the house that the local option people intend to play some advantageous politics this year. Their viewpoint is that the success of local option, if the bill is to be passed at all, depends on delay. During the pendency of the bill in committee the men back of local option are making a canvass of some of the counties to get petitions signed to have the members from the localities importuned to vote for the bill.

Teachers Pension Bill.

The bill of Senator Tompkins, of Cambria county, for a pension fund for school teachers is attracting considerable attention. Teachers who have taught in the public schools of the United States for thirty years, at least twenty of which must have been in Pennsylvania, would benefit through the fund.

A state board of retirement to administer the pension fund is to be created. Teachers who benefit through the retirement fund must be at least sixty years of age. The board is empowered to retire any teacher who has reached the age of seventy years.

The fund is to be accumulated by assessing the salaries of all teachers in Pennsylvania. All teachers in the public schools, including those in the normal schools, would be assessed 4 per cent of their salaries from July 1, 1915, to June 30, 1920; 3 per cent from July 1, 1920, to June 30, 1925; 2 per cent from July 1, 1925, to June 30, 1930, and 1 per cent from July 1, 1930, to June 30, 1935.

Optional With Teachers.

No teacher would be required, however, to contribute more than $6 a school month nor more than $60 a year during the first five year period, more than $45 during the second five year period, more than $50 a year during the third period, or more than $15 a year during the fourth period.

It is made optional with teachers whether they avail themselves of the benefits of the fund or not. After they have notified the state board of their willingness to contribute, the assessments will be retained from their salary warrants.

The pensions to be paid will amount to one-sixth of the average monthly salary received by the teacher during the last 100 months of service, as a teacher in the public schools, provided that no retiring allowance shall be less per annum than 30 per cent of the legal minimum annual salary of a teacher in the state for the legal minimum school year, or more than $300.

Civil Service Bill.

Civil service for the members of the police and fire departments in third class cities advanced a step last week when the Walton bill providing for that reform was reported out of the house committee with a favorable recommendation. Under this proposed act a board consisting of an educator, an engineer and a physician, would have charge of the civil service work. Men now in the employ of the cities and against whom charges are pending would be exempt from examinations. It would apply only to new applicants.

There is a movement in foot to change the law by which the state pays the cost of primary elections. If the counties were required to meet this expense the state would have $1,000,000 available every two years for other purposes.

The bill defeated two years ago to compel courts to hand down decisions in cases within nine months after they are heard has again been introduced. Senator Sensenich, of Westmoreland, is pushing this legislation.

AN ABRUPT PROPOSAL

Abernethy Was Too Busy For Romance and Courtship.

The reported fashion of the famous Dr. Abernethy's courtship and marriage is very characteristic. It is told that while attending a lady for several weeks he observed those admirable qualifications in her daughter which he truly esteemed to render the married state happy. Accordingly on a Saturday, taking leave of his patient, he addressed her to the following purport:

"You are so well that I need not see you after Monday next, when I shall come and pay you a farewell visit. But in the meantime I wish you and your daughter to seriously consider the proposal I am about to make. It is abrupt and unceremonious. I am aware, but the excessive occupation of my time by my professional duties affords me no leisure to accomplish what I desire by the more ordinary course of attention and solicitation. My annual receipts amount to £1,000, and I can settle £1,000 on my wife. My character is generally known to the public, so that you may readily ascertain what it is. I have seen in your daughter a tender and affectionate child, an assiduous and careful nurse, and a gentle and ladylike member of a family. Such a person must be all that a husband could cover, and I offer my hand and fortune for her acceptance. On Monday when I call I shall expect your determination, for I really have not time for the routine of courtship."

In this manner the lady was wooed and won, and it may be added the nation was tickled in every respect.—Westminster Gazette.

BLOODTHIRSTY FERRETS.

They Kill Not For Food, but For the Mere Sake of Slaughter.

The ferret is one of the most peculiar members of the animal kingdom. It belongs also to an extraordinary family, that of the weasels. A branch of this family is called the polecats, the European representative of our skunks, and the ferret is a species of polecat, generally an albino, yellowish-white in color, with pink eyes.

To hunt and kill mice, rats, rabbits and other small animals is the ferret's delight. It is coldly methodical in its murderous pursuits, and while it serves its master well, never tiring in the chase and never shrinking from an attack, it exhibits no trace of affection or attachment toward its trainers, as nobler animals do. The ferret is a typical killer and blood shedder. It has no friends and apparently wants none. It cannot be trusted and will sometimes attack small children.

It likes to kill not for the sake of food, but for the sake of killing. The mere act of taking the life of another creature is a pleasure to its flow. It got this bloodthirsty strain in its nature no one can tell. Its appetite for slaughter serves well in ridding our houses of rats and mice, but of what use is it to the ferret to kill those creatures? Its nature is that of a demon and wherever it sees the life blood beating at a throat its brutal instinct urges it to slit the throat with its keen teeth and let the life throb out.—New York Journal.

Ruskin's Political Views.

Ruskin was once a candidate for the rectorship of Glasgow University and drew into a rage when asked by a deputation of the students whether his political sympathies lay with Beaconsfield or with Gladstone. "What in the devil's name," he exclaimed, "have you to do with either Disraeli or Gladstone? You are students at the university and have no more business with politics than you have with rat catching. Had you ever read the words of mine with understanding you would have known that I care no more either for Mr. Disraeli or Mr. Gladstone than for two old nagpots with the druggies going by steam, but that I hate all Liberalism as I do Reelzebub, and that with Carlyle I stand—we two alone in England for God and the queen."—London Express.

Character Shown by the Nose.

"Here is an article in the paper that says a woman's character can be determined by her nose."

"Well, there may be something in that, but there's a surer way. No one can make a mistake concerning a woman's character if he will look at the nose of other women who meet her. The extent to which they turn up at such times shows just what she is or isn't."—Exchange.

Industry.

It argues, indeed, no small strength of mind to persevere in the habits of industry without the pleasure of perceiving those advantages which, like the hands of a clock, while they make hourly approaches to their point, yet proceed so slowly as to escape observation.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

His Objection.

The lawyer—Madam, what is your age? The Opposition (interrupting)—Your honor, I submit that my honorable opponent is inclining the witness to perjury.—Cleveland Leader.

C. last week in the interest of the location of the Soldiers Monument on the site of the proposed new Federal building at the corner of Fourth and Chess streets, Monongahela, are in receipt of a letter from the supervising Architect of the treasury desired permission to locate the proposed memorial on the government land had been gladly given and that the department was glad to have it so placed.

The writer went further to say that his department had improved on the exact location over what had been asked. The committee had asked permission to locate the monument near the corner of Fourth and Chess streets but the government had decided that should such a location be accepted, the handsome building would detract from its splendor and its significance and as a result they granted permission to place the edifice in the center of the main entrance to the building.

This was far more than the committee had expected and with such a location will greatly enhance the attractiveness of the monument and the Monongahela building.
